DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 8, 10, and 22-28 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:
3. The provision for a browsing means for displaying content data received from a server via a network; an operation detection means for detecting a predetermined specific operation of a user when the user reads the displayed content, including an operating event detector that monitors movement of a pointing device such as a mouse by the user on the displayed content data, and an operating event analyzer that analyzes a string of operating events detected by the operating event detector to extract a specific operation performed by the user; and a means for extracting specific text of the displayed data file that is displayed at a location where the detected specific operation is performed on the browsing means, wherein the specific operation comprises an operation selected from all of the group of operations of selecting text, pointing to a link, clicking on a link, tracing and reading in a transverse horizontal direction, and tracing and reading in a vertical direction is not fairly taught or suggested by the prior art of record. The provision to embed in the content data a program package to perform the operating event detection, such embedding performed by a server or proxy as claimed, is further found to distinguish over the prior art of record. Support for this functionality can be found in the Specification p. 19, line 12 through p. 22, line 3 and Fig. 1 and 2.

Examiner accepts the amendment of the claims to include all of the limitations of objected claims 22-28 and their base claims, rewritten in independent form.
